

The Bestest, Baddest Bachelorette Party Scavenger Hunt Ever

Überoom.com Presents: The Bestest, Baddest Bachelorette Party Scavenger Hunt Ever

How: Make copies of the scavenger hunt sheets. Divide your group into small teams of 3-4 girls, but teams of 2 can take their Porsche while teams of 8 can fit in a minivan. Give at least one copy of the task list to each team. Each task is worth one point, with bonuses being worth an additional point. Pick a meeting point (like the club, duh) and an end time.

When: Make the scavenger hunt part of the bachelorette party. For this, the Bestest, Baddest Bachelorette Party Scavenger Hunt Ever, we suggest a time limit of either 2 or 3 hours. Your guests will find it quite the challenge to finish this list in that time.

Who: This is a fun bachelorette party scavenger hunt for all friends of the bride.

What: Überoom.com provides you a list, you do the rest. A digital camera or camera phone, a pen, your friends, their cars, and copies of these game sheets. Check your shyness at the door.

Where: In the celebration city of your choice!

Why: There's no better way to kick off a bachelorette party weekend than having a thematic scavenger hunt. We can't explain the popularity or success of scavenger hunts but people love them just the same. Whether it's on the grade school playground or the nursing home cafeteria, the idea of a scavenger hunt gets everyone excited to play.

During The Scavenger Hunt: Keep your cell phone on in case you can call someone to bail you out of jail. End up at the meeting point and start having fun.

After The Scavenger Hunt: When time expires meet up with the rest of the party at a predetermined destination. Add up the points and share pictures from this memorable night. Make sure you have a ridiculous prize ready and waiting for the winners. Martha Stewart would have appetizers ready at the rendezvous time (I'm just sayin'). You'll probably be fine just ordering a couple of martinis.
